

Because an effective democracy depends on a diversity of opinion and the American culture itself demands opportunities for many voices and visions, I urge you to limit the number of media outlets a single corporation or individual can own. The airwaves belong to the public and they should serve the public interest, NOT corporate profits. Please, do the moral thing: protect the interests of the American people.